Bailey announces East County Traffic Summit

Supervisor George Bailey announced today that he will be hosting an "East County Traffic Summit" on Friday, September 22, 1989, 7:30 a.m. at the La Mesa Community Center, 4975 Memorial Drive in La Mesa.

Said Bailey, "Just as Governor Deukmejian recently called people together from across California to discuss critical transportation issues in a series of statewide traffic summits, it is time for the East County to focus on our area's traffic congestion and commute problems."

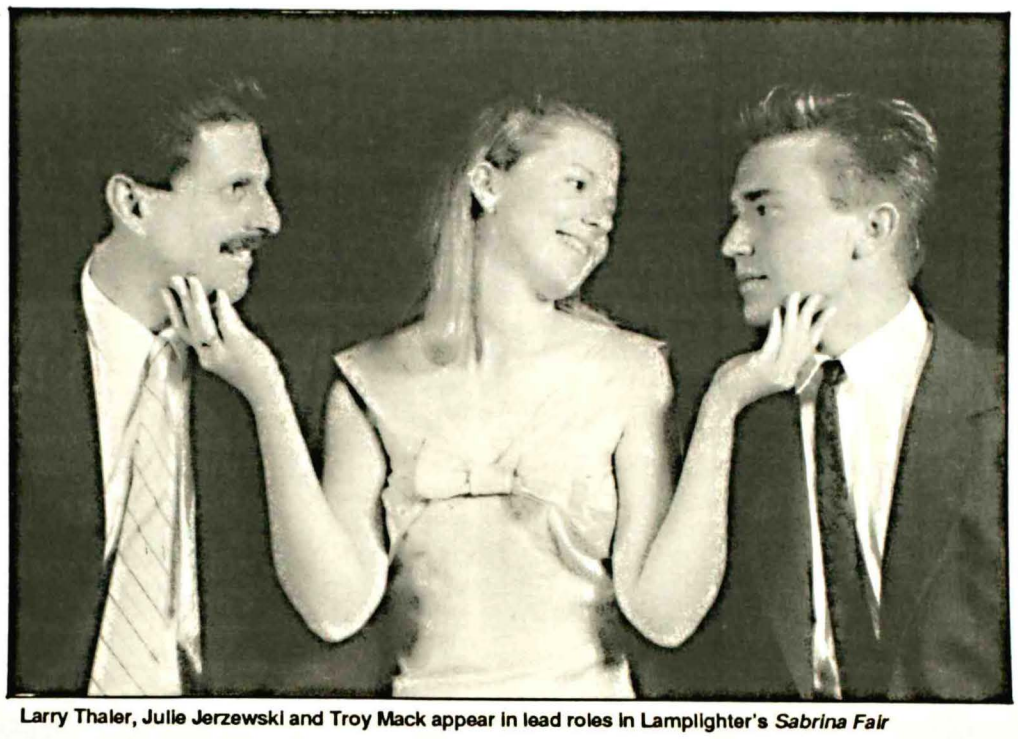
Continued Bailey, "The program is designed to be an information session to outline the concepts of transportation demand management, identify traffic problems specific to the East County, and to formulate recommendations from the East County for regional consideration."

"The forum is very timely," said Bailey, "as SANDAG has just released a regional transportation demand management draft ordinance for review by the County and all of the cities."

The traffic Summit will feature a presentation by La Mesa City Councilman Ernie Ewen, Vice Chair of SANDAG's Regional Transportation Demand Management Policy Advisory Committee, on the features of the draft ordinance and highlight the contra-flow policy element.

Added Bailey, "Now is the time for all employers—large or small—building owners and operators, landowners, employees, and the residents of East County to participate in the discussion and decisions that will affect our transportation future."

Everyone is welcome. Reservations may be made by called 464-7001, Extension 257. Coffee and rolls will be served. There is no charge.



Larry Thaler, Julie Jerzewski and Troy Mack appear in lead roles in Lamplighter's Sabrina Fair

Lamplighter's 1989-90 season opens Friday night with 'Sabrina Fair'

Can the poor, but beautiful, daughter of the family's chauffeur succeed in capturing the heart of the sober son of a multi-millionaire?

Sabrina Fair, the Lamplighter's first production of the 1989-90 season, answers that provocative question in a most delightful and surprising fashion. Directed by Kelly Rae Hero and starring Julie Jerzewski in the title role, Sabrina Fair opens Friday night, September 1st at the Lamplighter's theater, the beginning of a five-week run.

Others in the Sabrina Fair cast are Larry Thaler, Troy Mack, Paul Roger, Louise Merrim, Mildred Sutton, Ann Strong, Jim Brady, Chuck Price, Sylvia Novidor, Susan Younghusband, William Suiter, Linda Curry, and William Sandfer.

Anyone seeking reservations or further information should call the box office at 464-4598.

Automobile Club cautions motorists

The 1989-90 school season has arrived and thousands of children will be traveling to school—some starting class for the first time, unaware of proper traffic or pedestrian safety principles. The Automobile Club of Southern California reminds motorists that "Cars + Kids = Caution."

Motorists should prepare for the unexpected and drive cautiously, says Rhonda Aizenberg, Ph.D., the Club's public safety manager. "Since kids can dart out from behind parked cars or cross the street at unexpected places, drivers must be extra alert."

Parents, teach your children about traffic signal elements, including the "Walk/Don't Walk" signals and use of the pedestrian push button, advises Aizenberg. All pedestrians should walk on sidewalks and use crosswalks and intersections.

"Review traffic safety rules with your children and jointly plan a safe route to and from school and bus stops. Try to map out the most direct route, one with a minimum number of streets to cross. Take your child on a 'field trip' along the route, explaining the proper way to cross at intersections."

"Remind your children to stop, look and listen for oncoming traffic and to cross the street only when the road is clear or all vehicles have stopped," Aizenberg emphasized. If parents drive their children to school they should make sure to buckle up their seat belt and those of their children. Also, don't double-park in front of the school, cautions Aizenberg. "It's illegal, and it can confuse motorists and cause an accident."

Fittingly, City Manager Jack Shelver and passenger Catherine Miller were delayed by trolley gates and finished out of the money.

Lightning softball wins 13th

Valley Mesa Grove Lightning finished tied for 13th place in the A.S.A. 12 & under fast pitch girls' national championship in Tulsa, Oklahoma where a total of 55 teams from across the country participated.

Lightning started by playing an exhibition game against the Leigh Valley Outlaws from Pennsylvania and winning by a score of 8–3. Lightning then drew a bye in round one. In round two, Lightning played the Underwriters from Oklahoma, who had beaten Michigan in extra innings. Lightning won 6–5 in eight innings. In round three, Lightning got outstanding pitching from Allyson Manroe but lost to the Silver Bullets from La Palma, Ca., 2–0. The Silver Bullets earned second place.

Lightning then beat Edison Angels from New Jersey 9–0. The next game represented a loss to Lightning, 8–0, against the Redan Bandits from Georgia. According to manager Bob Castellanos, "The tournament was a great experience for the girls. They had lots of fun playing teams from other states. I was surprised how good the teams from the Midwest and Southwestern states were. The competition was so good, a lot of games went extra innings. California Outlaws won the tournament by winning seven straight games."

Lightning manager and coach John McClintock's goal for the 1990 season will be to make 12 & under nationals at Salem, Oregon. Lightning will return 6 players from this year's team, 3 with pitching experience at Nationals: Chandra O'Neill, Elizabeth Silva and Samantha Iuli, all eleven-year-olds.

"There were 7,710 teams that started the Junior Olympic season with a goal of making it to Nationals. We are very proud of our team," said Castellanos.

Local golfers do well in amputee tourney

Bick Long of Pinehurst, North Carolina beat Geoffrey Nicholas of Sydney, Australia on the last hole to win the 1989 Endolite/NAGA National Amputee Golf Championship held at the Singing Hills Country Club in El Cajon, August 22-24.

Long, a 45-year-old below-knee amputee, had a 72 hole total of 301 with rounds of 76, 70, 78 and 77 in fashioning his sixth national championship win. It was Nicholas' first amputee golf tournament. The 28-year-old Australian, also a below knee amputee, had a double-bogey on the last hole to finish with a 302. More than 130 golfers competed, a record turnout for the amputee tournament.

John Lindsay of Spring Valley finished fifth in the fourth flight with a 320, while John Thomaselli of Lemon Grove won second place in the second flight with a 334, and Jeannie Tyson also of Lemon Grove finished third among the ladies with an even 400.

Commentary

by Max Goodwin

Some acquaintances in years past referred to me as "the old philosopher."

Some used stronger language in their appellations, but none of them changed my point of view.

Any charge of being a philosopher came after I had developed a maxim which I used in arguments concerning governments. I held that arrogance will change governments and destroy its officials.

My credo has proved itself over the years, but never so dramatically as it has this year.

No one can forget the arrogance of Deng Xiaoping as he ordered his troups to crush the student revolt in Tiananmen Square.

All the demonstrators wanted were rights as humans. Those who died got no rights. Neither did the survivors. Deng appears to be having his way for the present, but my axiom will be realized. The freedom march started by the students will grow. It will grow faster and deadlier once it restarts because of Deng's extreme arrogance.

My axiom was being proved again this week in Soviet Russia. Forget Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev and the relaxation of controls (perestroika) that Russians have begun to enjoy.

The new ethos in which the Russian populace has enjoyed some freedoms had not been experienced by the present generation. Now their new freedoms are being threatened.

In April, Soviet Russian troops attacked and killed nationalist demonstrators in Soviet Georgia ala Deng. The nationalists crime, as in China, was the desire for freedom.

It is not known how many died, but the Soviet Union Communist Party strongly denounced the April movement and warned like treatment to those now demonstrating in the Soviet Baltic areas of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania.

Soviet newspapers warned that such movements create "alarm" and "hysteria." No one has been identified as the Soviet's enemy yet, but if the hard-liners follow my maxim, they will learn that "they have met the enemy and they is them" (with apologies to Pogo).

My maxim did not promise that the overthrow of arrogance would be easy—just certain.

Certainly Gorbachev understands this thesis. He has long since broken with the hard-liners. Regardless of whether or not he survives the present infighting, freedoms that have come with the changes to-date will lead to the eventual downfall.

As sad as it is to know that honorable people die for their beliefs, we must recognize that the humanistic drive is fully as strong as the compulsion of love.

If there are to be setbacks in either or both of these two great nations, the free world will be saddened.

Even if freedom fails now, its time will come.

Meanwhile, we must have patience, but carry a big stick. Remember, there is arrogance in some elements of our government also.

If it continues to grow, we may also find our freedoms subordinated. Maybe we should demand that President Bush establish a Federal Bureau of Non-Arrogance.

From Where I Sit

The Country Store

Automatic scanners, quick check verification, computerized inventory systems, double coupons, together with the tremendous variety of food products to choose from and the outrageous high prices creates a nostalgia for the "good old days" of the Country Store.

Because my father and I had to "batch it" most of my growing up time, I had to do some of the grocery shopping and a little of the cooking. We lived about 2 miles from the only store in the area so it was walk or ride my bike to shop.

This "Ye Old Country Store" had very little semblance to modern day merchandising. George, the owner of the store, lived next door for convenience, which also created a never-ending call to duty at weird hours. He went over to his house for lunch so the customer had to wait an hour for service.

Besides groceries, he ran the combination filling station, soda fountain, beer bar, work clothes department, and much more, all by himself except an occasional call to his faithful wife when things got really hectic. I would just hand my grocery list to George and he would fill it for me sometimes by climbing a ladder or by using a long pole to reach top shelf goods.

A lot of the bulk food stuffs, such as pickles, rice, beans, cookies, hardtack, etc, were stored in wooden barrels for all to see. The back of the store was stacked with work clothes, seeds, fertilizer, garden tools, nails, building materials, and most anything that rural people would need in those days.

Most of the customers would charge their groceries all winter and then try to pay for them all that next summer.

George didn't have a cash register or adding machine so all the items were recorded in a small charge book by hand, added up for a subtotal to remind the customer how they stood.

If I had any change left or permission to charge a few pennies, my last stop would be the candy counter. Old George would stand by while I decided what to buy. Everything was a penny so I would change my mind many times with great annoyance to poor George's patience.

Licorice sticks, jaw breakers, bubble gum, and "guess whats" were the most popular in those simple times. "Guess Whats" had two kisses and a prize for only once cent. With "Wheaties" box tops, the kids could get Jack Armstrong, "The All American Boy" prizes along with gimmicks from Ralston for "Tom Mix."

"Three in Line" wasn't heard of those days, so shopping for a few bare necessities could take a couple of hours, but so what, the pace was much slower in those "good old days" and people could live more peacefully—stress was an unknown commodity.

New 'Cops Care' campaign begins

The California law enforcement community has designated September as the month for every motorist in the state to give safety belts a try, according to Captain Don Watkins, Commander of the CHP's El Cajon Area.

"The theme of the campaign is 'The Cops Care,' " he explained, "and we really do. We are also tired of cleaning up the gut-wrenching messes left on the pavement by the unbelted victims of motor vehicle crashes."

More than 1,250 people were killed on roadways within the Highway Patrol's jurisdiction during the first six months of 1989, and over 80 percent of them were not restrained by safety belts. "At least half of these people would still be alive if they had simply taken the time to buckle up," Captain Watkins said.

He used the Fourth of July holiday this year as an example of the difference belts can make. Of the 54 fatalities on CHP-controlled highways, 50 of the victims—more than 90 percent—were not wearing safety belts. The El Cajon area reported two fatalities, both of whom were unrestrained.

"What a tragedy! In spite of these alarming statistics, people still refuse to wear their safety belts, particularly on the short trips across town when they are most at risk," continued Watkins.

"Not only CHP officers, but officers from every law enforcement agency in the state are making an appeal to California motorists to buckle-up in September. We urge everyone who still thinks that safety belts are too much trouble to 'test drive' them during September. It only takes two weeks to develop a habit that could save your life."

Sports Commentary

by John E. Wirges

Steve Ortmayer has one of the toughest jobs in sports. The director of Charger football operations has to be smooth and persuasive in negotiation, yet hard and pragmatic when it comes down to cuts. He has to hire and fire with no hard feelings.

Ortmayer doesn't make the cuts himself. Head coach Dan Henning and his staff go over all the variables. Final decisions are made on maximum input from the widest range of concerned interests. But Henning and Ortmayer remain the "bad guys."

That doesn't mean to say a little business isn't sometimes mixed up in close decisions. Rolf Benirschke, who had a veteran's well-padded contract, was to all intents and purposes dumped in 1987 in favor of Vince Abbott's rookie remittance. Now it is Abbott's turn to step aside. Vince was among the first cuts.

Still, reducing the Charger's roster to 60 players, a feat that had to be accomplished Tuesday, from the 80 players of early training musters was much easier than cutting down to the season opening limit of 47 due by next Monday.

The Chargers close out the 1989 exhibition season this week on Friday night (kickoff 7:00 p.m.) at San Diego Jack Murphy Stadium against the Phoenix Cardinals in a game that means playing in the NFL or hitting the bricks for a real job to at least 26 players.

The hitting figures to be tremendous on both sides of the line and the scrambling on special teams, where non-starters really get to show their stuff, could be pro-bowl quality.

Jobs are to be won or lost on tomorrow night's efforts. That though hasn't been lost on those surviving Tuesday's cuts. To a man, they all know what tomorrow's game is all about.

How good are the Chargers going to be this year? Who has a crystal ball? Sid Gillman, the Ol' Warhorse who created the Chargers back in 1960 and coached them for 10 years, has a way of judging the pitfalls of professional football.

"The trip from the penthouse to the outhouse [in football] is 2 injuries in the same position," he claims. Sometimes an injury in just one position can take a team on such a ride.

In the past, Charger coaches used to study the waiver wire in hopes of up-grading their playing roster on cutdown day. That practice no longer holds much promise. It's San Diego cuts that now interest other clubs.

In all honesty, Ortmayer has done a remarkable job of signing, trading and drafting players to provide Henning with real competition for each position. And he has done some of his most effective work under pressure.

The Chargers opened pre-season drills with no varsity quarterback, a crowd at running back and new folks on the offensive line. The only proven plus was on defense.

Ortmayer engineered a trade for quarterback Jim McMahon, who had worn out his welcome in Chicago. As hoped, the opinionated McMahon lit a fire with a short fuse in the offense. With just 2 weeks of learning the Charger system under his belt, McMahon gets the varsity call against the Cards. But he has competition.

McMahon has done well on short notice, but the fire he started has rookie Billy Joe Tolliver playing like a pro bowler.

With first round draft choice Burt Grossman in camp, an already impressive defensive line becomes awesome.

Ortmayer seems to have made contenders out of our Chargers.

Metropolitan Water District supports Mono Lake legislation

Metropolitan Water District's board of directors has recently supported legislation that could help protect environmentally sensitive Mono Lake and assist the city of Los Angeles in financing alternative water supplies.

The legislation, AB 444, co-authored by Assemblyman Phillip Isenberg (D-Sacramento) and William Baker (R-Danville), would establish a $75 million environmental fund that could be used to help Los Angeles replace water the city has historically diverted from the Mono basin but in the future would flow into Mono Lake.

A series of agreements between Los Angeles, the Mono Lake Committee and the State Department of Water Resources would be required before any of the money could be spent.

Since the early 1940's, Los Angeles has diverted up to 100,000 acre-feet of water each year from four streams that feed into saline Mono Lake. Those diversions have caused the level of the lake to drop dramatically and brought the city under continuing legal pressure to allow the lake to be filled sufficiently to protect wildlife.

Metropolitan General Manager Carl Boronkay said preliminary court rulings indicate that Los Angeles ultimately may be required to permanently reduce the amount of water it draws from the Mono Basin. Los Angeles, in turn, could seek additional water from Metropolitan Water District, which already faces substantial water deficits in the future unless new supply facilities are built.

"While the legislation by Isenberg and Baker would not replace water lost in a final court decision, it could be a helpful tool in providing for Los Angeles' future water needs and stabilizing Mono Lake," Boronkay said.

Metropolitan provides water service, through its 27 member public agencies, to more than 14.7 million Southern Californians in Ventura, Los Angeles, Orange, San Diego, San Bernardino and Riverside counties.

Joe Freed on the Movies

'Let it Ride'

"Lust. Chaos. And cold cash. That's what great days are made of." — So reads the newspaper advertisements for actor Richard Dreyfuss' new comedy, "Let it Ride" and although lust, chaos and cold cash may very well make a great day, they unfortunately only make an average movie.

It revolves around an adventurous day in the life of a gambling fanatic (Dreyfuss) who has gone back on his vow against gambling because of one, last "sure thing." Sure enough, the horse does come through for Dreyfuss who then finds dissatisfaction in petty cash, and continually puts his winnings on the line, no matter how large the risk.

Ths story does have its funny moments, with Dreyfuss dealing with a furious wife (Terri Garr), his paranoid buddy (David Johansen) and a beautiful bimbo, played by the incredibly gorgeous Jennifer Tilley. I gotta tell you guys—Jennifer has filled the "lust" requirement of the film way beyond the call of duty. But I can't rate a film highly for its babes . . . can I?

Anyway, the film comes to its climatic conclusion with $69,000 riding on the number three horse and the scene is very well done, with intensity which almost makes up for some of the screenplay's faults. Almost is the key word.

Heart promoted to library branch manager

by Julie McCawley

Cathy Heart, an employee of the county library system for 12 years, was recently promoted to the position of Branch Manager at the Lemon Grove Library.

Her career started with a job opening at the Spring Valley branch in 1977. A frequent patron at that library, she became friends with the employees there. When an entry level position became available, Pat Buck, then the branch manager in Spring Valley, encouraged Cathy to apply. Cathy got the job, and worked in Bonita before finally coming to Lemon Grove.

Cathy's new job consists of employee supervision and running the library. Carol Stanley, head librarian, supervises Cathy and organizes various activities such as special childrens' programs, ordering books and assisting people with research.

Cathy isn't originally from the San Diego area but graduate from Morse High School and attended both City College and SDSU.

Cathy's goals for the library include expanding public use and attracting young adults to the facility.

"I would like to make the public more aware of the library's uses," Cathy said.

The Lemon Grove branch also welcomes Paula Rosete, a Tech 1 employee, who was displaced when the Woodlawn and Castle Park libraries became absorbed into the Chula Vista branch. Heart says Rosete is a welcome addition to the library and the staff is delighted to be working with her.

UCP Parent Group meets Wednesdays

Parents of young children with cerebral palsy are welcome to attend the weekly programs and open discussions.

Childcare is provided for the evening sessions. Call UCP at 278-5420.

Bromeliad Study Group to meet

The Bromeliad Study Group of Balboa Park invites the public to the meeting Tuesday, September 12, at 7:30 p.m., Casa del Prado, Room 104 in Balboa Park. The program will be a general discussion and demonstration of cutting and potting new offshoots of Bromeliads.

A generous plant raffle will follow the program and escort service to your car is provided.

Leitner to speak at Historical Society meeting on September 7

The regular meeting of the Lemon Grove Historical Society will be held on Thursday, September 7th in the Lemon Grove Library, 8073 Broadway at 1:30 p.m.

Following a short business meeting, we will have a slide show about Lemon Grove presented by Judy Leitner of the Metropolitan Development Board. This promises to be an outstanding program.

Anyone who is interested is invited to join us for the meeting and the short social hour which follows. For additional information, contact the Historical Society's Publicity Chairperson, Clara Folk, at 466-8760.

St. John of the Cross celebration set

As part of its fiftieth anniversary celebration, St. John of the Cross Parish is having an evening of sharing and singing with Sebastian Temple, the composer of such well-known hymns as "The Prayer of St. Francis."

Mr. Temple is a gifted author, composer, performer and lecturer. This special evening is scheduled for September 9 at 7 p.m. in the Parish Hall at St. John of the Cross at Broadway and Washington in Lemon Grove. There will be refreshments and a "love offering" will be taken. All are invited!

'Old West' fall festival scheduled

St. John of the Cross annual fall festival will be held on September 22, 23 and 24 on the church grounds at 8086 Broadway, Lemon Grove. This year's theme is "The Old West," which is in keeping with the year-long 50th anniversary celebration. Fifty years ago, St. John's was well-known for its rodeos and barbecues. This year there will be many attractions along with a commemorative barbecue. Some of the attractions will include children's game booths, craft booths, international food booths and the "OK Corral" Beer Tavern. There will also be plenty of entertainment.

All are invited to help make this celebration a joyful and memorable one. This year's fall festival promises continuous entertainment on the St. John's Stage. Performances such as professional dancers, puppet shows, escape artists, disc jockeys and a variety of dance bands are planned. So, shine up those dancing shoes and join in the fun!
